Health Career Centres

For internationally educated health professionals

Preparing you for a health career in Alberta

What do Health Career Centres offer?

We guide internationally educated health professionals through the registration and licensing processes so they can find employment in their field or a complementary profession. Clients will benefit from career coaching, study groups and referrals as they work towards meeting the requirements for professional practice in Alberta.

The Government of Alberta supports two Health Career Centres – at the Bredin Institute Centre for Skilled and Internationally Trained Professionals in Edmonton and Directions for Internationally Educated Health Professionals – Bow Valley College in Calgary.

Services are provided at no cost.

We offer a variety of resources:

- Advice and support through the registration and licensing processes
- Reference material on health care occupations
- One-on-one employment and career coaching
- Occupation-specific health care seminars
- Study groups to help internationally educated professionals prepare for licensing and accreditation exams
- Study groups to support clear communication and speech patterns
- Referral to bridging and language-training programs
- Referral to community resources
- Support during employment
